anyone have any opinions as to what we should do?
i suggested we keep going with [Redacted] but hold on the others.

We approved an offer on Monday, and [Redacted] has it in hand. He's certainly to leave Apple, probably to us. He is waiting to see whether the two other people from Apple that we called based on internal and external references get offers. One interviewed yesterday, one is interviewing today. I'll have the results later this afternoon. Here is what Carrie wrote a couple of minutes ago. I'll definitely meet [Redacted] today. If any of you are available, it will probably help, since Steve Jobs is meeting with [Redacted] to try to sell him on interesting projects in Apple.

Ben Goodger has been chatting with [Redacted] and Steve Jobs is apparently really trying to keep [Redacted] so he is offering really cool projects.

That said, Ben was going to have [Redacted] stop by again this evening...like 5:30p ish to see if we can get him.

Two issues that impact this: we have two others from Apple that [Redacted] is waiting to hear what their interview outcome will be. [Redacted] did okay [Redacted] we are trying to bring in this afternoon. I will route to you in ATS.

Are you around this afternoon? At 5:30p ish?

Steve just called me again and is pissed that we are still recruiting his browser guy. You should give him a call.
